Modern Christianity to 1900
A People’s History of Christianity, Volume 6

Edited by Amanda Porterfield
General Editor, Denis R. Janz

Christians encounter the modern spirit

SELLING POINTS
• Explores the many aspects of lived Christianity on several continents
• Attends to the advent of Evangelical, African American, and Asian Christianities
• Includes 50 illustrations, maps, bibliographies, and an 8-page color gallery

After the Reformation, Christians found themselves living amidst wars of religion, Enlightenment, and colonization.

The spread of Christianity to lands outside Europe and the Middle East, the new pluralism within Christianity, the incredible transformation of the Americas and of Christianity there—all these provoked new relations among Protestants and Catholics, women and men, masters and slaves.

In this volume, the way in which lived Christianity and its practices were altered by these global changes is probed by an illustrious group of scholars led by distinguished historian Amanda Porterfield.

The contributors include: Amanda Porterfield, Florida State University; John Corrigan, Florida State University; Carlos Eire, Yale University; Peter Gardella, Manhattanville College; Ava Chamberlain, Wright State University; Douglas Winiarski, University of Richmond; Charles H. Lippy, University of Tennessee; Cheryl Kirk-Duggan, Graduate Theological Union; Marilyn Westercamp, Merrill College; Leo Cavalcanti, University of Richmond; Vera Shevzov, Smith College; and Ronald L. Numbers, University of Wisconsin.

Amanda Porterfield is the Robert A. Spivey Professor of Religion and Director of Graduate Studies at Florida State University, Tallahassee. Her extensive academic service includes as President of the American Society of Church History in 2001. She is the author of ten books on American religion.