

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Note to the reader	x
Abbreviations	xi
Introduction	xiii
1 The ancient media situation	1
What is oral tradition?	1
Some characteristics of orality and oral tradition	2
Writing in antiquity	8
Consequences for the oral Jesus tradition	13
2 Form criticism	15
Martin Dibelius	16
Rudolf Bultmann	21
Evaluation	27
3 The rabbinic model	33
Gerhardsson's thesis	34
Evaluation	39
4 The media contrast model	47
Erhardt Güttgemanns	48
Werner Kelber	51
Evaluation	61
5 Informal controlled oral tradition	66
Kenneth Bailey's model	66
Bailey's data	68
Evaluation	79
6 Memory and tradition	86
Individual memory	87
Collective or social memory	91
Memory in oral tradition	99
Tradition and performance	103

Contents

7	Memory and orality in the Jesus tradition	108
	James Dunn – Jesus Remembered	108
	Richard Horsley (and Jonathan Draper)	115
	Rafael Rodriguez – Structuring Early Christian Memory	123
	Other contributions	131
	Conclusions	133
8	The role of eyewitnesses	135
	Samuel Byrskog – story and history	135
	Richard Bauckham – Jesus and the Eyewitnesses	143
9	Probing the tradition	159
	Mark and Paul	159
	Mark and Josephus	169
	Conclusions	175
10	Conclusion	177
	Stability, change and the role of individuals	178
	Implications for historical Jesus research	181
	Implications for source criticism and Gospel interpretation	183
	Conclusion	184
	Bibliography	186
	Index of ancient and biblical texts	195
	Index of modern authors	197
	Index of subjects	201