

Table of Contents

Photography Credits
Acknowledgments
Preface

1. Religion and Public Life:
Early Traditions of Black Religious Women's Activism
Working for Survival and Liberation: Racial Uplift and Social Responsibility
Womanist Theology and "Keeping on Down the Freedom Road"
Witnessing and Testifying
Sojourner Truth: A Black Religious Woman's Antebellum Activism
Nannie Helen Burroughs: A Turn-of-the-Century Activist
2. Continuing the Traditions:
Attention to the "Least" in Civil Rights Activism
Ella Baker: Passing on Values of Attending to the "Least"
Septima Poinsette Clark: Education for Citizenship
Empowering Local People as a Moral Value
3. Giving the Movement Life:
Black Women's Grassroots Activism
Fannie Lou Hamer: Realizing Promises of Religious Faith and Hope
Victoria Way DeLee: Community Activism as Religious Practice
Self-Realization as Moral Practice from a Grassroots Perspective
4. Clara Muhammad:
Supporting Movement Ideas Outside Its Mainstream
Clara Muhammad and the Nation of Islam
Religious and Moral Influences in Muhammad's Early Life
Muhammad's Role in the Development of the Nation of Islam
Muhammad's Religious and Moral Perspectives
5. "Fire Shut Up in My Bones":
Black Women Students in the Movement
Diane Nash: Passionate Agitation for Positive Quality of Life
Ruby Doris Smith Robinson: Building Community and Sustaining

Community Protest

Nash and Robinson: Young Visionary Activists

6. Testimony, Witness, and Civic Life:

The Meaning of Black Women's Civil Rights Participation

Testifying and Witnessing

Values and Virtues: Models and Practices in Black Religious Women's Activism

Black Religious Women and Public Life

Notes

Bibliography

Index