Table of Contents

Preface
Abbreviations

1. Visual Art, Portraits and Idolatry
    - Early Christian Views of Visual Art: Historical Analyses
    - Art and Idolatry in the Early Third-Century Christian Writings
    - Jewish Background for Christian Rejection of Visual Art
    - The Earliest Examples and Types of Christian Visual Art: Church Regulation
    - Portraits: A Particular Kind of Problematic Image
    - The First Portraits

2. Image and Portrait in Roman Culture and Religion
    - Idealization versus Realism in Roman Portraiture
    - The Savior-Type and the Philosopher
    - Funerary Portraits
    - Portraits and Presence — The Image of the Emperor
    - The Images of the Gods

3. The Invisible God and the Visible Image
    - Justin Martyr: Refutation of Idols and Divine Theophanies
    - Irenaeus: The Unity of God against the Gnostics
    - Tertullian: The Dignity of the Incarnation and the Distinction of the Persons of the Trinity
    - Clement of Alexandria: Philosophical Aniconism and the Futility of Idols
    - Ancient Roman Precedents for Christian Aniconism
    - The Philosophical Argument in the First Four Centuries C.E.
    - First-Century and Early Rabbinic Teachings on the Invisible God
    - Theophilus, Novation, and Origen: Salvific Vision ("Seeing God and Living")

4. Seeing the Divine in the Fourth and Early Fifth Centuries
    - The Invisible God in the Fourth Century
    - The Anthropomorphite Controversy
    - Augustine and the Problem of the Invisible God
    - Portrayals of God and the Trinity in Visual Art of the Third and Fourth Centuries

5. Portraits of the Incarnate One
    - Traditions and Legends regarding Jesus' Appearance
    - Jesus' Variant and Changing Appearances in Literary Sources
    - Jesus' Variant and Changing Appearances in Art
    - Jesus as Savior and Healer: The Beautiful Youth
    - Jesus as Teacher, Philosopher, and Ruler: The Bearded Type
    - Christology and the Image of Christ in Ravenna
    - The Transfigured Christ and the Two Natures Controversy
    - Christology, Salvation, and the Role of the Image

6. Early Portraits of the Saints and the Question of Likeness
    - Descriptions of Saints' Portraits in Literary Documents
    - Specific Examples of Holy Portraits
    - The Question of Likeness: Conclusion

Notes
Glossary
Select Bibliography
Index