

Table of Contents

Abbreviations

1. Scholarship Regarding Jesus' Sentence to Death
  - Some Historical and Theological Presuppositions
  - A Scholarly "Bent" in All Writing on the Trail?
  - The Kind of Writing That the Gospels Are

2. What Roman Law Allowed
  - Something of the History of Roman Palestine in the Period
  - What Can Be Known of Pilate's Legal Powers
  - The Pilate of Jewish History versus the Pilate of the Gospels
  - A Thoroughgoing Historical Skepticism

3. The Interrogation and Trial according to Mark
  - Some Theories on Mark's Target Audience
  - Belief in a Suffering Son of Man Rather than Historical Concern
  - The Roles of Judas, the Sanhedrin, and the High Priest
  - The Use Mark Made of Daniel 9:13 and Psalm 110
  - Jesus' Confession before the High Priest and the Church's End-Time Faith
  - Challenge and Response: Mark's Faith in Who Jesus Is
  - The Charge of Blasphemy
  - Jesus Mocked, Betrayed
  - Mark's Setting of Times and Places; The Barabbas Story
  - The Unavailability of Clear Answers to Clearly Posed Questions

4. The History of the Tradition of the Interrogation and Trial in Matthew
  - Jesus' Conduct in Trial and Passion Consistent with His Teachings
  - A Commonplace on the Temple's End-Time Destruction Made a Charge against Jesus
  - Matthew's Further Modifications of Mark and Special Insertions
  - Matthew's Primary Concerns Theological

5. The Inquest and Trial Narratives in the Gospel according to Luke
  - The Lukan Supper and Gethsemane Narratives; Peter's Denials
  - Jesus before the Sanhedrin, Pilate, and Herod Antipas

Luke's Hypothetical Passion Source Distinguished from Mark
Theology and Historical Tradition Blended in Luke's Passion Source
Luke's Christology Requires That Jesus Be Found Guilty and Pilate
Innocent
The Final Days

6. The Caiaphas and Pilate Narratives in John

Theories of a Mark-John and a Luke-John Relation
What John Added to His Hypothetical Source
John as Master Dramatist

7. Conclusions

Acknowledging the Biases of the Gospels as They Come to Us
Can Gospel Scholarship Reduce Christian Anti-Semitism?

Notes

Select Bibliography on the Passion and Trial of Jesus

General Index

Index of Scripture Passages