

"Imprisoned by a job you hate? You hold in your hands a GET OUT OF JAIL FREE card!"
— David Murrow, author of Why Men Hate Going to Church

"...provides keen insights into the work that God intends for each of us and a unique process to help us discover what God is calling us to do."
— Wink Martindale, host of TBN's "Beyond the Game"

"Ed Klodt has nailed it. The largest issue of concern for any wage earner is a sense of fulfillment and being in the right place. The Jonah Factor is compelling, engaging and a must read for anyone who is interested in finding God's call."
— Larry Kreider, President, The Gathering, USA

"Martin Luther taught us about 'vocation', Rick Warren touched a cultural nerve by addressing 'Purpose', now Ed Klodt integrates vocation and purpose as he addresses the struggles and potential blessings in our occupational search for meaning."
— Howie Wennes, Interim President, California Lutheran University

"With the turmoil in the job market today, with retirement plans being totally changed, or in many cases being stopped, the lack of company and employee loyalty, and changing of jobs more frequently, I believe and highly recommend that this book be read by all individuals (male and female) that are unhappy in their jobs and are contemplating a move, either up or down, into another position. The use of the 13 Spiritual Steps to Finding the Job of a Lifetime, coupled with the strong belief in God, will in fact, assist all who read and use these steps to better satisfy the daily needs in their lives."
— Floyd M. Gilbert, Colonel US Army (Retired), President, National Council of Presbyterian Men, Presbyterian Church (USA)

"The Jonah Factor is a very readable, user friendly book which invites the reader into discovering one's vocation and meaningful life and work. The author draws upon his life experience, biblical references, and other resources to assist in this journey. It reads as though it is a close friend, a companion on the way and, as such, I will want to keep it close by as an ongoing source of reflection and guidance."
— Bud Holland, Coordinator, Office for Ministry Development, The Episcopal Church Center

"Author Ed Klodt deftly pinpoints the angst of so many Americans – they don't want to be at work! Using an insightful study of the biblical character Jonah's struggle to find fulfillment in God's purpose for his life, Klodt introduces a step-by-step approach for readers to hear and follow God's call to a fulfilling career. I loved the Bible study of Jonah. It's worth a series of sermons! In succeeding chapters, Klodt contextualizes Jonah's study with practical steps he coins 'The Jonah Factor: 13 Spiritual Steps to Finding the Job of a Lifetime.' Readers will find inspiration in The Jonah Factor to motivate them toward career fulfillment and purposefulness."
— Virginia R. Holmstrom, Executive Director, American Baptist Women's Ministries, American Baptist Churches USA

"Human nature resists getting outside the comfort zones but The Jonah Factor faces the fear/faith factors squarely and gives the reader a toolbox filled for mining the riches found in scriptures and in the aptitudes God has given each of us. Often I hear people say that they ended up in their careers 'by accident,' unhappy because their God-given aptitudes are left waiting to be useful and fulfilling. Like Jonah, their 'leap of faith' is the best thing ever to happen for them. In 20 years facilitating group ministry to 10,000 persons in Job Transition, I've met many who could be blessed by Ed Klodt's book, including me!"
— Pastor Rod Anderson, St. Andrew Lutheran Church and Job Transition Group, Eden Prairie, Minnesota
