Ivanka Demchuk's love for iconography began with a fascination with the distinctive 14th-16th century icons local to her hometown of Lviv and region of Western Ukraine. For her own uniquely modern icons she chooses topics that appeal to archetypes, such as victory and loss, birth and death, motherhood, sacrifice, and human transformation. When contemplating these, her goal is that we gain strength through unity with the generations who came before us, who endured, suffered, won, loved, rejoiced, and mourned as we do.
