

Contents

Editor's Foreword	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction • Before the Sermon: Interpreting the Biblical Text	1
What Is Exegesis?	2
The Three Worlds of the Bible	5
Ethics and the Three Worlds of the Bible	10
Biblical Interpretation for Preaching	12
Chapter 1 • Bringing the Text into View	13
Beginning a Close Reading of the Text	15
Shifting to a Wide-Angle Lens	16
Case Study: Luke 7:36-50	18
Conclusion	28
Chapter 2 • Who's Reading and Whose Reading?	29
The Reading Community	30
The Congregational Community	32
Religious Experience, Biblical Authority, and the Congregation	35
Case Study: Luke 7:36-50	36
The Living Word	39
Chapter 3 • Engaging the Text in Historical Context	41
The Challenge of Historical Distance	42
History and the Ethics of Biblical Interpretation	44
Reading in a Stream of History	45
Examining the Historical and Social Contexts of the Bible	46
Exploring the Historical World of the Text	48
Case Study: Luke 7:36-50	48
Chapter 4 • When Worlds Collide:
Reading against the Grain of the Text	55
Contextual Criticism	56
Feminist Criticism	58
Postcolonial Interpretation	61
Reading with Resistance	62
Case Study: Luke 7:36-50	63

Conclusion • Discerning the Transforming Word	67
Toward Interpretation	68
Discerning the Word	70
Case Study: Luke 7:36-50	71
Appendix • A Close Reading of Matthew 4:1-11	73
Notes	77
For Further Reading	83